

Prob.1

From the screen shot, we can see the system times of the two models are significantly different at level 0.05. The estimated mean difference is -0.147. And the average system time of the revised model is larger than that of the original one.